Why Is Art Full of Naked People: And Other Vital Questions about Art

This irreverent and informative primer asks tricky questions about what makes art art. What is with all the fruit? Why is art so weird nowadays? There are questions about how art views the world, from cave paintings through to Cubism, from the Renaissance to contemporary art, questions about different genres, including still-life painting, landscapes and portraits, and questions about the role and value of art in the past and today. The book is structured around 22 questions, each one tackled over two spreads. Through this provocative approach it offers an introduction to art history and a toolkit to enable young people to feel confident asking questions, searching for answers, and “reading” art for themselves. $19.95, hardcover.

A Dragon on the Roof: A Children’s Book Inspired by Antoni Gaudi

Set in Casa Batlló, one of Antoni Gaudi’s most renowned buildings, this joyful story introduces young readers to the architect’s work, inciting their curiosity and imagination along the way. Unafraid, Paloma reaches out to pet the dragon - but he is ticklish, and as he laughs, he spews a host of sea animals that he had unwittingly swallowed. The house is transformed into a dreamy aquarium and the dragon settles into a deep sleep on the roof. Cécile Alix’s playful story and Fred Sochard’s boldly graphic illustrations are the perfect accompaniment to Gaudi’s exuberant vision. The end of the book includes a brief history of Gaudi’s career and provides helpful background to Paloma’s story. $14.95, hardcover.
